The CRAP Principles

- Contrast
- Repetition
- Alignment
- Proximity

Contrast

- Put simply, difference
- Allows you to direct the reader's attention
- Helps you to group similar items together

Repetition

- Reusing the same or similar elements throughout a document/design
- Suggests unity, consistency, cohesiveness

Repetion

THE ELIZABETHAN HUMOURS

In ancient and medieval physiology and medicine, the humours are the four fluids of the body (blood, phlegm, choler, and black bile) believed to determine, by their relative proportions and conditions, the state of health and the temperament of a person or animal.

Eyes have Power

When two people fall in love, their hearts physically became one. Invisible vapors emanate from one's eyes and penetrate the other's. These vapors change the other's internal organs so both people's inner parts become similar to each other, which is why they fall in love—their two hearts merge into one. You must be careful of eyes.

Music has Power

Songs of war accelerate the animal spirits and increase the secretion of blood in phlegmatics. Songs of love reduce the secretion of choler, slow down the pulse, and reduce melancholic anxiety. Lemnius (1505–1568) wrote that music affects "not only the ears, but the very arteries, the vital and animal spirits, it erects the mind, and makes it nimble." Marsilius Ficino (1433–1499) wrote in his letters: "Sound and song easily arouse the fantasy, affect the heart, and reach the inmost recesses of the mind; they still, and also set in motion, the humours and the limbs of the body."

Wine has Power

Ken Albala states: 'Wine is the most potent corrective for disordered passions of the soul. In moderation it reverses all malicious inclinations, making the impious pious, the avaricious liberal, the

Alignment

- Think about a grid on which you are ordering and arranging the various elements
- Creates a sense of “clean-ness” to the design

Alignment

Proximity

- Moving things together or apart to achieve a more organized design
- Allows you to group related items together and separate unrelated items

Proximity
