Week 9 / Tuesday

Rick Wysocki

Links Across Papers

Links Across Papers

Within the body of the essay: In-text citations.

cial power to change the world. What matters are not the words themselves but how sincerely they are spoken (Keane 77). But Wilkinson suggests believers use

Figure: A in-text citation.

Links Across Papers

Keane, Webb. "Sincerity, 'Modernity,' and the Protestants." Cultural Anthropology 17.1 (2002): 65–92.

At the end of the essay: A full citation.

Figure: A Works Cited entry.

Links Across Papers

Within the body of the essay: In-text citations.

cial power to change the world. What matters are not the words themselves but how sincerely they are spoken (Keane 77). But Wilkinson suggests believers use

The author's name links across the essay from the place where you discuss the source to its full citation.

Keane, Webb. "Sincerity, 'Modernity,' and the Protestants." Cultural Anthropology 17.1 (2002): 65–92.

At the end of the essay: A full citation.

Figure: The in-text citation "links" to the Works Cited entry.

Page Numbers

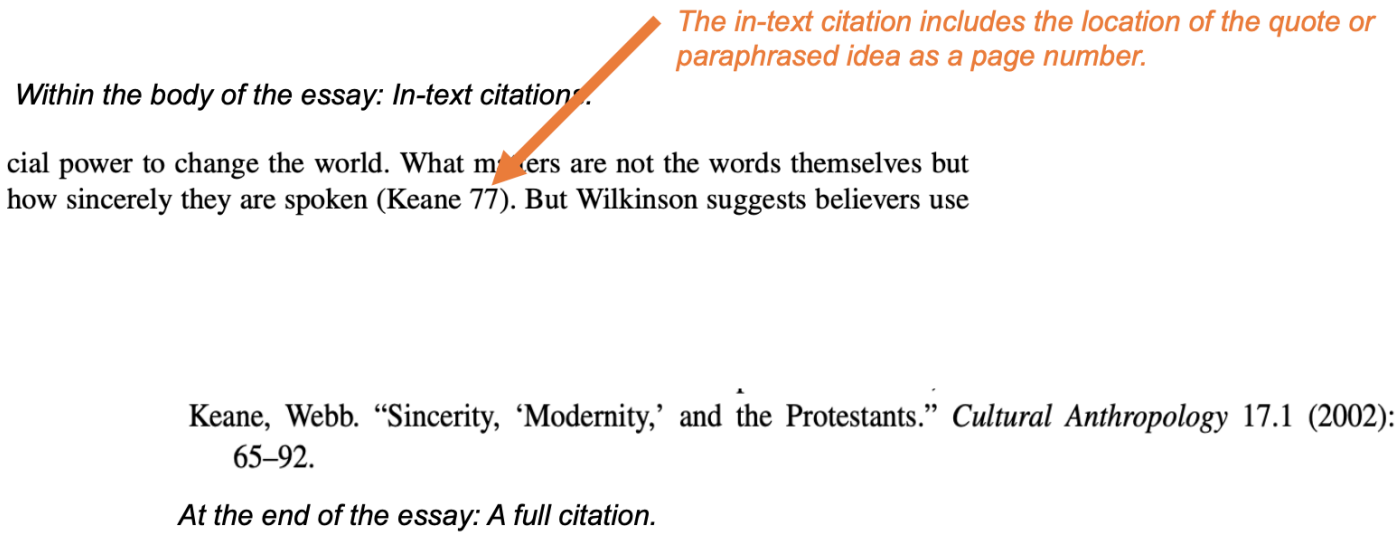

Figure: When a text has page numbers, they are included in the in-text citation.

Parentheses and Punctuation

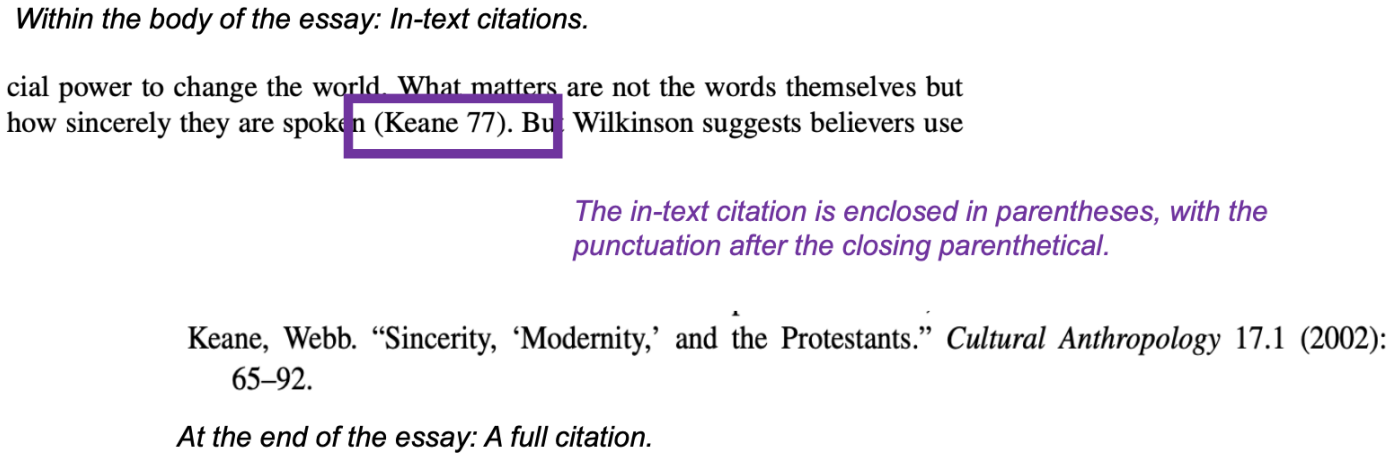

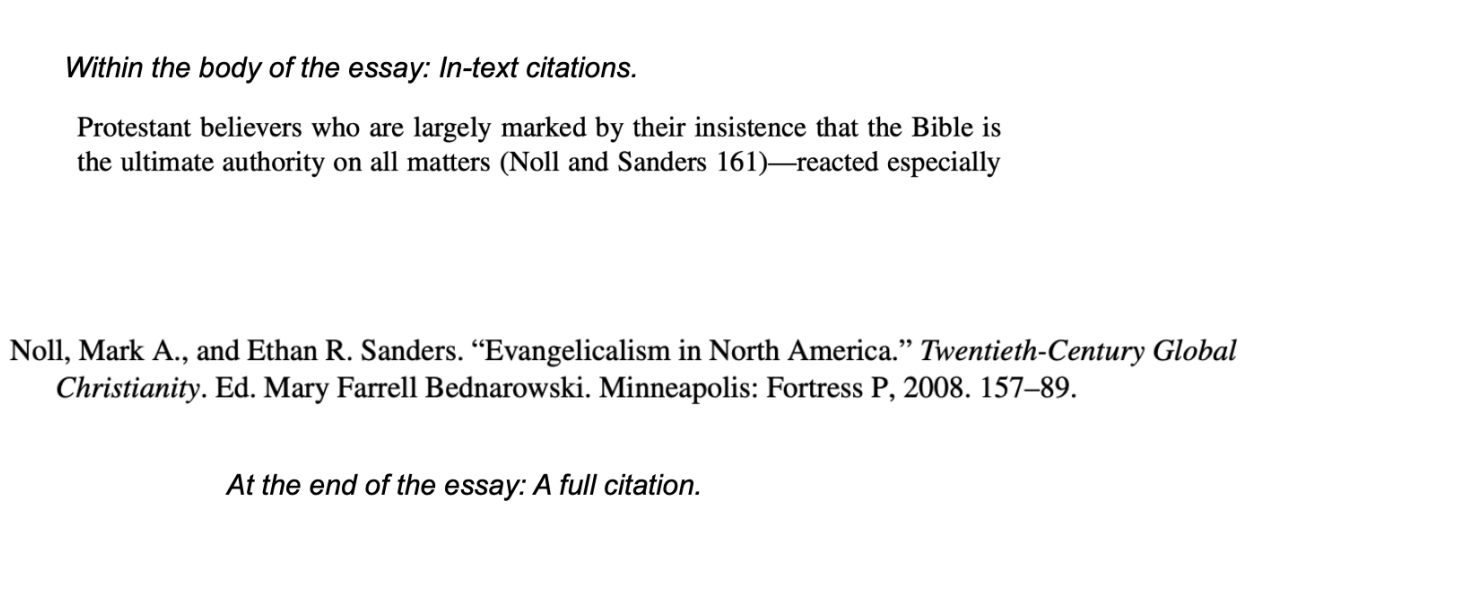

Figure: In-text citations include parentheses within the sentence.

Two Authors

Within the body of the essay: In-text citations.

Protestant believers who are largely marked by their insistence that the Bible is the ultimate authority on all matters (Noll and Sanders 161)—reacted especially Noll, Mark A., and Ethan R. Sanders. "Evangelicalism in North America." Twentieth-Century Global Christianity. Ed. Mary Farrell Bednarowski. Minneapolis: Fortress P, 2008. 157–89.

At the end of the essay: A full citation.

Figure: You can include two authors' names in an in-text citation.

Name Already Mentioned in the Sentence

Within the body of the essay: In-text citations.

Here's the author's name, mentioned in the sentence.

logical lesson." By framing Jabez's prayer in terms of its literary function, Schultz undercuts Wilkinson's extension of the text as "universal instruction," combating its use as a "miracle-working mantra"[14] (113, 115, 116).

Since the author's name is in the sentence, we just need the page number here. (Note that you can cite multiple pages at once.)

Schultz, Richard. "Praying Jabez's Prayer: Turning an Obscure Biblical Narrative into a Miracle-Working Mantra." Rev. of The Prayer of Jabez: Breaking through to the Blessed Life, by Bruce Wilkinson. Trinity Journal 24.1 (2003): 113–19.

At the end of the essay: A full citation.

Figure: If the name is already mentioned/contextually clear, don't include it.